TRIBUTE TO WILMA

The sudden death of Wilma Cook, for 20 years editor of the Carmel Pine Cone, has shocked and saddened all of us. We took it for granted that she would always be a part of the village like the trees, the rustic ways, the unspoiled beach that she defended spoiled beach that she defended against every threat.

She loved Carmel; she did her valiant best to save the village from the almost irresistible pressures of commercialism, sudden popularity and mentality of suburbia. What uniqueness Carmel has retained is due in great measure to Wilma's influence as editor of the Pine Cone and her single-minded devotion to the values of minded devotion to the values of her town. Every winding lane that succumbed to the strait-jacket of asphalt, and every tree that fell she took as a major defeat in a long war, but she never lost her faith in the necessity of fighting on against the stereotyping of Car-

She was the gadfly to the uneasy conscience of Carmel. No public official was ever unaware of her condemnation when he yielded to expediency or apathy. Wilma had a genuine flair for old-fashioned frontier editorializing, and on two propositions she was adamant: Carmel was a special case and the whole duty of every city official was to keep this firmly in mind; Carmel's boys and girls are "our kids" and deserve special commu-nity support. She wrote at white heat, but she never harbored a grudge and, curiously, she never expected that her opponents would either. She was absolutely sincere in her prejudice in favor of Carmel, and it genuinely puzzled and disappointed her that people could not speak their minds (or lose their tempers), without losing

Photographer Ansel Adams, Here For One-Man Show, Sees Start Of Permanent Carmel Highlands Home

As a noisy concrete mixer dumped its first batch of wet, gray cement into the foundation forms of his new home in the Carmel Highlands, Ansel Adams looked on and said, "By next April, you'll find me a permanent resident here and not just another occasional

Adams, world famous photographer whose pictures have been published in more books and magazines than he can remember and who has the appearance of a sixfoot tall pixie, has long planned to move to the Peninsula. Actual work on the construction of his new house this week brings the time near when the hope becomes an actuality.

Concurrently, the new headquarters of the American Federation of Arts on Lincoln between Ocean and Seventh opened its doors with an impressive one-man show of the work of Ansel Adams in one of the most stunning exhibitions of the photographic art ever to be shown in California.

The exhibition, almost retrospective in nature, covers a variety of subject matter which well demonstrates the scope of Adams' vision and extraordinary talent. Some of the prints are huge; some are so small as to pass almost unbserved. Yet each has the stamp of Ansel Adams upon it: an inspired conception followed by a faultless execution.

Many of the prints are familiar, having been reproduced in publications throughout the world. In this category are the Yosemite photographs and the prints of the wild areas of the American West. Not so familiar are some of the portraits which are included. Of particular interest are eleven Polarold pictures, ten of them tiny and one enormous in size, which ndicate the inherent possibilities in this medium when used by a

Pine Cone Editor Wilma Cook Dies Of Heart Attack

Wilma Cook, editor of this paper for the past 20 years, died Monday afternoon of a heart attack.

Mrs. Cook was stricken while shopping in an Ocean Avenue store in preparation for a trip to Mexico City on which she was to leave today with her husband, Clifford Cook, Pine Cone publisher. The proprietor of the shop telephoned Mr. Cook. He drove Mrs.

Cook to her physician's office in Carmel but she failed to respond to emergency treatment and was taken to the Peninsula Community Hospital in the Red Cross ambulance operated by members of the Carmel Volunteer Fire Department, Shortly after her arrival at the hospital she died.

Mrs. Cook was born in San Francisco on September 6, 1905, and was proud of her birth certificate, charred in the San Francisco Courthouse fire following the earthquake of 1906.

Her childhood was spent in San Luis Obispo. In her early years she developed a love of the outdoors on frequent outings with her parents to nearly beaches, moun-tains and streams. She also learned to appreciate the friendliness of life in a small town. Her schooling in the convent in San Luis Obispo led her to pursue knowledge as joy throughout her life.

After completing high school, she entered Holy Names College in Berkeley; transferred after two years to the University of Cali-fornia and completed work for a bachelor's degree. Courses she took in Greek, Sanskrit and history were of particular interest to her. She continued to study history throughout her life. During the past three years, as a night and, daytime student at Monterey Peninsula College, she studied German and Spanish. Last summer, in addition to Spanish, Mrs. Cook took a course in the history of Latin American countries and was en-

LAGUNA SECA ROAD RACES START TOMORROW

Carmel's Bob Shirley and his hard-working road crew have been working overtime for the past two weeks polishing up the 1.9-mile Laguna Seca track for the $20,000 Grand Prix which will unfold over the tricky hairpin turns next Sunday afternoon. The world's top drivers will be on hand to vie for the loot and honor which go to the top finishers in the Grand Prix. Although the pros will go for the big money in Sunday afternoon's Grand Prix, there will be plenty of action for the amateurs on Friday and Saturday.

A crowd of over 75,000 is expected to jam the tight and hilly Fort Ord track for this year's Grand Prix, Well-trained parking crews with radio and helicopter assistance will in sure smooth movement of the heavy traffic which is inherent with an event of this kind. The cozy Laguna Seca track has many safe vantage points for race viewers and all of them are within easy walking distance of the parking areas.

Quiet Jack Brabham, fresh off a scintillating performance which gave him top money at the Riverside Grand Prix last weekend, will draw a lot of attention from race fans as he turns his Cooper Monaco Climax loose on the hairpin

Stirling Moss of England, Bruce McLaren of New Zealand, Jim Hall of Texas, Roger Penske of Philadelphia, and Bob Drake of Los Angeles fell victims to Braham's skill at Riverside and will be out to even the score at Laguna Seca. Moss, one of the most popular drivers on the professional circuit, was leading the field at Riverside until mechanical trouble sent him to the pits on the 27th lap.

Friday's schedule has professional safety inspection and registration at the course from 9:00 a.m. to 3:00 p.m. Professional practice and time trials will be run from noon to 5:00 p.m. Saturday's amateur competition will begin at 12:50 with a ladies' race and continue until 4:45. Sunday the pros will go for the $20,000 prize money with practice getting underway at 9:30 a.m. and qualifying starting at 10:15 a.m. The formula juniors will leave the starting grid at 1:00 p.m., and the first of the two 100-mile Grand Prix heats is slated to start at 2:00 p.m.

Tickets for the three days are scaled at $1.00 for Friday, $2.00 Saturday, and $3.00 Sunday. An additional dollar will give spectators a grandstand reserved seat on Saturday and two dollars will do the job on Sunday.

CARMEL GRIDDERS WIN PAIR FROM GILROY

Smashing to a 37-0 win in the junior-varsity fracas and squeaking by 20-19 in the varsity tilt, Carmel High's football squads kept their records untarnished for the 1961 season as they swept a double-header from the Gilroy Mustangs. Played in 90-degree heat at Bardarson Field last Saturday afternoon, the games with the rugged Gilroy lads served to tighten the Padres for their all-out crucial tilts with the confident King City Mustangs this Friday night.

Coach Fred Rainer's junior-varsity crew coasted through the firsthalf and sat on a 6-point lead when the gun went off to end the half. However, in the second-half, the portly mentor reaped the benefits of his intermission pep talk as the Little Padres exploded for five touchdowns and one successful conversion. Rainer's ramblers got their six-pointer in the firsthalf when quarterback Al Nishimura lofted a touchdown aerial to end Phil Zobel. In the point-hungry second-half, the Little Padres crossed the final stripe five times on runs by Dennis Clark and Marlin Fluegge, a pass from Nishimura to Gary Mumford, and a pass from Tim Mosolf to Pete Braudrick. Ronnie Bucher tossed a short flip to John Jones for a successful conversion following Braudrick's touchdown. Sturdy line play by Claude Dechow, Bob Wells, Dave Preve, Grant Pollock and Bill Hill made the going easy for the Little Padres.

Coach Hadley Hicks saw his well-conditioned varsity come back from a 13-7 halftime deficit to edge Red Elder's fighting Mustangs, 20 to 19, in one of the best prep games of the current season. The Mustangs took a 6-0 lead early in the second period, dropped behind, 7 to 6, when George Pollock scored for the Padres and Rick Baldwin made good on the conversion, and took the lead again in the waning moments of the first-half when quarterback Botil scampered over for a score. The spirited Red & Gray gang evened it up in the third period when diminutive Steven Fairfield skipped 40 yards for the deadlocking touchdown. A pass from Dan Hol-man to Ted Leidig put the Padres ahead in the fourth heat and a successful conversion boot by Rick Baldwin provided the game-winning point.

Hard-hitting line play by Jim Kelley, Bob Albee, Ken Friddle, Pete Conway, Tony Belleci and Charlie Davis served to counter the behemoth Gilroy forwards who outweighed the Padres nearly 25 pounds per man,

This Friday the Padres travel to King City for a double-header with the high-flying Mustangs who are pennant-hungry after 12 frustrating seasons. Friday night's jayvee tilt gets underway at 6:00 o'clock with the varsities slated for an 8:00 o'clock kickoff.

Thousands of pieces of man-made sapphire will cover the surface of the communications satellite now being developed by Bell Telephone Laboratories.

These sapphires are expected to protect from space radiation the cells of Bell solar batteries which convert sunlight into electricity. In the illustration, an engineer is covering a solar cell for a communication satellite with manmade sapphires.

This protection is expected to enable "working" satellites to endure the rigors of space for ten years or more, relaying telephone calls and television across the oceans.

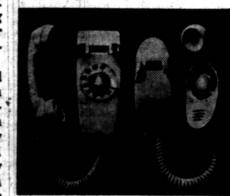

Due to the growth in population in the Carmel Valley, the Pacific Telephone is almost doubling the size of it's central office, at an estimated cost of $62,000.00. The project is scheduled for completion in May, 1962.

Music On The Peninsula

BY MARY LINDSAY-OLIVER

Today, the report on the first Symphony Concert of the 1961-62 season is being written with heartfelt regret for the loss of our beloved editor, Wilma Cook, who, in her sincerity and persistent effort for all the best that Carmel stands for, including music, can ill be spared from the community.

The sixteenth season of the Monterey County Symphony Orchestra with its new resident conductor, John Gosling, presented in Salinas and Carmel, Monday and Tuesday, a program worthy of any orchestra. With the short amount of time available for rehearsals since arrival of Conductor Gosling, he and the orchestra personnel did a stupendous task. Even if the great and difficult 4th Symphony of Brahms required more time to clear its intricate phrasings, its overall tonality was given with power and persistent enthusiasm and with progress Tuesday from the previous night. A rising credit to the orchestra it brought strong recalls for all.

Opening with the Handel Water Music that Sir Hamilton Harty arranged for modern orchestra, the variety of its joyful pieces imme-diately proved advancement in the technique of this year's players. The beautiful second piece, Air, was rendered with nuance and feeling, particularly by the strings. The movement of this work almost carries one along on the tide of the river and so pleased King George I for whom it was written, that he requested two repetitions that day. It was, however, in the work of Norman Dello Joio, The Triumph of Saint Joan, that the best performance was most touching. Of contemporary works, this is one that is highly interesting. Its theme and orchestration are outstanding with a fascinating pastorale and sensitive feeling in The Maid, Part I, The Warrior, Part II, brings a realistic bombardment employing shrill flute, trumpets and the lowest possible notes of bass and tube in startling effects. The Saint, Part III, is full of esoteric surprises and the whole, with its pianissimo ending, leaves one in reverence of what Joan accomplished and became. Even if the treatment of the score cannot be recognized by many as logical, it is music, not senseless noise.

cision and emphasis to which the players responded. Therefore, we look forward to another year of real advancement in the orchestra's development. Both Gosling and the new concertmaster, Owen Dunsford, were warmly received on entrance and met many at the Carmel Art Association galleries where the Guild gave a reception for the orchestra.

The next pair of concerts are on December 4 and 5.

Former Atlantic Editor, Publisher And Novelist. Now Carmel Writer

A New Englander by birth, Mrs. Chamberlain lived most of her early years about 30 miles from Boston, obtained degrees from Barnard College and from Oxford University in England, then went to work as a reporter for the Boston Globe.

"But I never liked newspapering as well as the different pace of magazines, nor magazines as well as publishing." From the Atlantic Press, she went in 1943 to Dodd-Mead as editor, serving as editorin-chief during World War II.

Her fund of anecdotes from these fush days on the American publishing scene must be endless, and she is herself a keen appreciator of the fiascos and triumphs of business and art.

"Editing is a matter of reading hundreds of stories, articles and poetry, much of it very bad", she said, "and of learning to perform the delicate task of writing letters of critical suggestions to writers who must be made to feel absolutely flattered but still do the work.

"I recall one young man who sent us a novel that simply could not be pulled together no matter how hard he tried", Mrs. Chamberlain said. "So we gave him up. He later turned the book into a

In 1948 Mrs. Chamberlain quit her job to write her own first novel. The Leaf Shall Be Green, published by Dodd-Mead. "It was a story about Boston. One critic called me 'a sort of lady Marquand' and I believe it was a fair description. I still think New England is the most original place of all, and New Englanders the most original people.

"After the first novel I wrote another heavily based on metaphysics. It went along rather poorly until I finally admitted to myself that I knew practically nothing about metaphysics.,

"It's a thing I've tried hard to pass on to my writing classes. Please, write about something you know. But many times it becomes advice not taken."

Following her first stint as a writer, Mrs. Chamberlain moved to the other side of the fence by taking a position, again with Dodd-Mead, as consulting editor. This she held until 1952 when she came to Carmel to make her home, and to continue writing.

For several years she taught with the University of Washington Extension, and at Monterey Peninsula College, as well as at the Pacific Grove Adult School,

Of her course in creative writing, for which she is flatteringly remembered all over the Peninsula by those who were her students, she says with superb honesty, "I have given it up. I'm not at all sure people can be taught to write except for the mechanics of it. At least not in groups."

Also during the time she has lived in Carmel, at a pleasant, tucked-away cottage near the Carmel River end of the beach, she has been on the staff of Harrison Memorial Library—between sieges of heavy work on her current

She has just turned out one, in fact a juvenile, called The Cherry Street Cat Club. "It's about five cats," she says, "but humans come into it. However, the cats do not talk back nor give advice on the stock market." And another juvenile is in the mill.

Mrs. Chamberlain's own wide experience with books, combined with her association with Mr. Sedgwick (who was editor of the Atlantic from 1908 to 1938 and among many other things published Ernest Hemingway's Fifty Grand when every other editor hadturned it down) have given her an expert's clear view of what direction American fiction is likely to

"As for poetry," I don't know though. I personally still love Robert Frost, but that's got nothing to do with today's poerty. The modern poems I find most satisfying are the short ones in such magazines as Saturday Review and The New Yorker.

"I don't buy as many books as I used to. Except for paperbacks, they are simply too expensive. To pay six-ninety-five for a novel that isn't War and Peace sems extrava-

We hope to create a nucleus for a parking district in the future with this plan," Mr. Fouratt told the Pine Cone this morning. "If we don't provide more parking in town, all the business will go to the shopping centers in out-oftown areas. Over the years I've sat on seven committees and we've discussed all kinds of answers to the problem from parking meters to underground parking lots. We are hoping more people will be able to see the need and we hope this is the answer.'

Gladys McCloud, president of the Association, planned to dispatch questionnaires to the full membership immediately asking its endorsement of the committee's action. If the endorsement is forthcoming, the plan will be presented to the Carmel City Council.

"I do think it's interesting that more books are being sold than ever in spite of television.

"Fiction is best nowadays when it's short. Breakfast at Tiffany's by Truman Capote, The Light in the Piazza by Elizabeth Spencerthese are the best of their kind.

"Unless you happen to be Tolstoy, it's best to stop at 45,000 words, and this must have a beginning, middle and end. Most people read for pleasure and some insight. A too-long novel throws them.

"The novella is preferable to a long, wordy book which lists everything in the room, informs you that at six the hero had his teeth straightened and at eight he watched his mother run off with the doorman.

"Except for J. D. Salinger, who is a special case, it's the time to f in fiction Publ less to worry over. When magazines use the material, there's less condensing to do. That's true, too, of the movies."

When Mrs. Chamberlain isn't doing something connected with writing or reading or editing or teaching, she pursues another interest, language study. She is now taking advanced French, for no other reason than that she wants to revive her own French and she likes it.

"France may be a dying country", she said, "but the language is lovely."

FROM A LIBRARIAN'S NOTEBOOK

By Ruth Galvin Thornburg Most of us are tired. When the weather is hot, we blame it on the temperature. When the weather is chilly, we just like to sit by a fire and forget everything. All the time, that tired feeling may be a normal part of the ups and downs of life. However, it will do us no harm to understand tiredness, what causes it, and what we can do about it. Donald and Eleanor Laird have a book called Tired Feelings and How to Master Them. It seems a good book on this subject and should be read entirely, not used as a reference book, because the index has a tired feeling itself, and gets nowhere.

A how-to-do-it book which should prove helpful to the gardener is Plant Pruning in Pictures by Montague Free. It will be so if pictures can do the trick, because it has quantities of pictures, most of them being photographs showing people actually doing the pruning. The fly in this particular ointment is the fact that the pictures were not taken in this climate, but in some place where spring pruning is done in a bleak, leafless area which looks dreary enough to make you give up before you start, sprouts are sprouts and pruning is pruning, no matter what the surroundings may be. Chin up, and

According to Eric Lincoln, there are 69 temples for Black Muslims in this country, and there are 100,-000 colored people who are mem-bers. Eric Lincoln is himself a negro, and is a professor of social philosophy at Clark College in Atanta. He interviewed Black Muslims all over the country to obtain material for his book entitled The Black Muslims in America. He writes with deep understanding and perception about this muddled mess called race relations in this

Because this state is one in which the migrant worker plays a heavy role, we have a new book by Louisa Shotwell entitled The Harvesters: the Story of the Migrant People. This book is not only an exposition of one of our great economic problems, but it is also a collection of small stories about these people, their many personal problems, and their reactions. In-

The television program Wisdom vas a series shown on NBC and was based upon a saying of Pliny which runs "Visit men who are supremely great". The book Wisdom for Our Time is composed of certain of these programs, visits with great men and women who have passed through fire and emerged greater than ever. It is written in the conversational style of the television interview. The wisdom is here without doubt, and the atmosphere of the book is personal and positive. At the end of each chapter, or interview, there is a short list of books suggested as further reading for the person who wishes to pursue the life or opinions of the person in question.

Tanganyika Bishop All Saints' Service Of Witness Preacher

The first of a series of events celebrating the Consecration of All Saints' Church building will be held Sunday afternoon at 4:30 o'clock when a Service of Witness for all Episcopal congregations in the central coast area will feature the famous Anglican bishop and monk, Trevor Huddleston, as Bishop Huddleston, member of the Community of the Resurrection, an English monastic order founded in the nineteenth century at Oxford University, is famous as a vocal foe of apartheid in South Africa. Renouncing his English citizenship upon his appointment to serve in Johannesburg, South Africa, Father Huddleston spent 12 boys' school, often called the Black Eton of South Africa. With the development of nationalist segregation policies, Father Huddleston was harrassed by the government, his home raided, his congregation photographed row by row. In 1956 he was recalled to England. He re-

James Schwabacher Opens Free MPC Concert Series

Tomorrow evening Monterey Peninsula College Concert Series will open its new season with James Schwabacher, a singer who needs no introduction to many Peninsula devotees of music. July. 1961, marked his eleventh season as leading tenor for the Carmel Bach Festival - and he has appeared in the same capacity at the Ojai and Brevard, North Carolina, Festivals.

A versatile artist, he is continually sought out by leading symphony orchestras to appear as soloist. He has sung fourtéen roles in the San Francisco Opera Company, toured with the Intimate Opera Company in English versions of Mozart's Operas, as well as sung in chamber music concerts with the eminent Griller and Budapest Quartets. Radio audiences will remember James Schwabacher as a vivid and informative Opera commentator, A successful telecast series entitled "The History of Song" was produced by Mr. Schwabacher. His professional career includes being a member of Stanford University Faculty where he served as conductor of the Stanford Glee Club, gave courses in History and Appreciation, and coached French Opera in the Opera Workshop.

This winter, Mr. Schwabacher will make his New York debut in a recital at Town Hall. He brings two other fine artists with him to add to his Monterey Program; Germaine Prevost, violinist; and Alden Gilchrist, pianist. Together they will perform an unusual program of songs.

The concert will begin at 8:30 in the Library Lecture Hall, and is open to the public without

See How They Run, Lighthearted Comedy At Studio Theatre, Has Hilarious Laugh A Minute Pace

A confirmed theater-goer, your reviewer is always delighted when a theatrical performance entertains. She is happy to report that See How They Run at The Studio on Dolores Street is a hilarious success and is playing to crowded houses.

Orchids to Royden Martin and his wife Betty Hackett for their plan to produce a series of lighthearted comedies in these days of gloom and doom. Their first choice

See How They Run is a happy selection: well constructed, fast moving, good dialog and—clean. There is a laugh a minute. There is no higher praise for a comedy.

Producer John Halloran and Director Barbara Horder West are to be congratulated on their excellent casting. It makes the whole play believable. Your reviewer is happy that this new producer-director team maintains the high professional quality of their predecessors. They are to be congratulated on the smooth precision of the entire production.

Florence Venn, as Miss Skillon, played it straight and almost stole the show with her combination of prudery and befuddlement.

Peter Lissaman might well have strayed from the pulpit of All Saints' he was so convincing as the vicar of Merton-cum-Middlewick.

Derek Napier Lawford, with his charming British accent, can always be depended on to maintain a befitting dignity to an otherwise ridiculous role. He played the Bishop of Lax.

Peggy Chandler, as Penelope Toop, a good looking and experienced actress was convincing as the slightly irresponsible wife of the vicar; and whose thoughtless antic precipitated the entire situation.

The entire cast put on an excellent performance maintaining the fast pace so necessary to the success of a farce-comedy. See How They Run is highly recommended for a pleasant evening's entertainment. It will play for the next six weekends at The Studio.

The cast is as follows:
Ida, Dottie Weston; Miss Skillon, Florence Venn; Reverend Lionel Toop, Peter Lissaman; Penelope Toop, Peggy Chandler; Corporal Clive Winton, David Scott Hubert; The Man, Herbert Smith; The Bishop of Lax, Derek Napier Lawford; Reverend John Humphrey, Barry Meehan; Sergeant Towers, Vernon Read.

Staff—Barbara Horder West, director; John Halloran, producer; Royden Martin, R. Rolleston West, John Halloran, stage design and construction; Bonnie Hubert, stage manager and properties; Reid Putnam, Jerry Zellhoefer, lighting; David Armanasco, house manager.

Bulove quality throughout.

Miss Perry, Dr. Smith Return

Following a summer spent with the Perry-Mansfield School of the Theatre at Steamboat Springs, Colorado, Miss Charlotte Perry and Dr. Helen Smith have returned to their winter home in Carmel. Miss Perry has already returned to her position as director of drama at Santa Catalina School in Monterey, but the other member of the well-known Perry-Mansfield team, Miss Portia Mansfield, left for a tour of England, France and Italy at the close of the drama school's summer season, and plans to return to Carmel sometime after November 1.

This summer marked Miss Perry's forty-seventh season as head of drama and co-director of the school. This year's Perry-Mansfield Theatre Festival included productions of Moss Hart's The Climate of Eden, John Van Druten's I Remember Mama, the annual Evening of Dance, and The Cabin at Medicine Springs, an adaptation by Miss Perry of a book of that title by Lulita Crawford Pritchett.

The season closed with a gala production of Moliere's 17th Century classic, Le Bourgeois Gentilhomme, in a new translation by Francois Martin of Carmel Valley Tantamount Theatre

Top Blows In Kansas

Dr. Howard E. Clark, after attending medical meetings in Chicago ten days ago, took the train to Kansas City, then with derringdo started to drive a 1935 Packard roadster to Carmel for his friend Alton Walker, vintage car collector.

On the highway outside Kansas City the wind blew. The top of the 26-year-old car wanted to go with the wind. Dr. Clark tried to restrain it with his hands. After 15 miles his battle with the elements was lost; so was the skin on his fingers.

The Packard is still in Kansas but Dr. Clark is home with taped hands. He flew.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE SERMON

Salvation is attained through spiritual awakening, growth, and progress. This is a theme of the Lesson-Sermon entitled "Probation After Death" which will be presented at Christian Science churches Sunday.

From John (5) will be read these words of Christ Jesus: "Verily, verily, I say unto you, He that heareth my word, and believeth on him that sent me, hath everlasting life, and shall not come into condemnation; but is passed from death unto life."

One of the citations from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy states: "Universal salvation rests on progression and probation, and is unattainable without them"

The Golden Text is from I Corinthians (6): "God hath both raised up the Lord, and will also raise up us by his own power.'

Nes Family To Return To Morocco

Mr. and Mrs. David Nes and their four children ended a twoweeks visit here on Tuesday when they flew south to stay with Mrs. Nes' mother, Mrs. Eleanor Taylor James, in Pasadena for a week and a half, before going back to Morocco, their home for the past two years.

They will live in Morocco for another two years as Mr. Nes, a member of the United States Diplomatic Service, is assistant to the U.S. Ambassador to Morocco.

During their Carmel visit, the Nes family occupied the home of Mrs. Hildreth Hare, Mrs. Nes' aunt. Mrs. James, who spent the summer here with her sister, Mrs. Hare, drove to Pasadena on Monday. Sunday evening, the Nes family, Mrs. Hare, and Mrs. James joined Mr. and Mrs. Ric Masten and their four children at the Masten home for a family dinner party. Mr. Masten and Mrs. Nes are cousins.

Menlo Park First Grade Report

Owen Baylis, a first grader at Ladera School in Menlo Park, went home Sunday night anticipating a report to his classmates on a weekend in the Big Sur back country with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Nathaniel Baylis, and his younger brother, Lloyd; all guests of his Aunt Lucinda and her husband, Johnny Williams.

In a bottle Owen had a giant "Jiminy Cricket". Packed safely were two trout. He was ready to tell about seeing deer feeding at sunset on the coastal ridge above Post's Ranch, wild pig wallows in Thorpe and Logwood creeks, a 40 foot waterfall, the towering rocky Ventana peaks, a black widow spider and a rattlesnake. He had slept in a tent and ridden in a jeep.

Don And Lee Hare Home

Expected home today for a long weekend in Carmel are Lee Hare and his brother Don, junior and freshman respectively at Desert Sun School at Idyllwild in the San Jacinto Mountains. Mother of the pair, Mrs. Hildreth Hare, received a note from Lee this week with the news that, while Carmel sweltered in unaccustomed heat several days ago, Idyllwild was under-going a rollicking good hail storm at its 7500-foot altitude, which led to sliding on the ice and snowball, or perhaps hailball, fights among Desert Sun students. Also news was the school's October 7 soccer game which it split with its opponent, the Army and Navy Academy, in a 1-1 tie. Lee is right halfback on the team, his brother left fullback. Another Carmelite, Harwood Nelson, plays right wing.

The program will be followed by tea, and all who are interested are invited to attend and to view the exhibit of Edda Heath's paintings and Cecelia Heller's ceramics, which will be on view only until October 27.

THE OUTWARD FRIEZE

There is no eyeless bone, Feather, or a serpent's skin To tell that my love has flown; Or that my love is dead.

The heart is but
A red lacquered coffer,
Empty — but the outward frieze
Is all that memory has to offer.

BOY IN A WOOD

The boy sits in the greening wood And dreams his world is tall Beyond the growing hemlock The rushing waterfall.

The boy sits in his forest throne, A maple stump his chair— Chipmunks are court servants Who wait upon him there.

He waves his hands as boats go by In cloudy rivers of the sky Bird wing flags wave back at him Through summer's windy rim.

The boy sits throned in sunlight His scepter is the green Sword fern that he keeps to guard His castle's passing scene.

As he surveys his kingdom's charts Across his throne a field mouse darts Jumping in between His throne room and his dream.

fornia Cities sessions, which will occupy most of next week, will be Carmel City Planning Commissioners Mrs. Florence Josselyn, John B. Martin and Lawrence D. Rose, commission secretary and Carmel city clerk-controller.

There will be no planning commission meeting at the usual time, next Wednesday afternoon, because of the absence of a quorum. (Another planner, Herb Blanks, is ill.)

The commission will meet instead on Monday afternoon, October 30, at 4:00 o'clock, for its next regular session.

Saturday and Sunday 75,000 persons are expected here for the Pacific Grand Prix sports car racing at Laguna Seca track. Traffic conditions will be broadcast throughout the day and motorists are advised to keep tuned to 630 kilocycles for reports. A helicopter will inform State Police of conditions on access roads and automobiles will be directed to entrances in accordance with this information. Adequate parking will be provided this year, officials of the Sports Car Racing Association promise.

Commissioner Peter E. Mitchell and Examiner Wilson E. Cline will preside at two California Public Utilities Commission hearings in Monterey this month and next.

The Monterey Peninsula Municipal Water District wants to have fixed just compensation to be paid for the California Water and Telephone Company water system in this area and has petitioned the PUC hearings.

All interested persons are asked to appear and be heard October 25, 26 and 27 and again on November 8, 9 and 10 at 10:00 o'clock in the morning in the community room of Monterey Public Library.

Monterey Peninsula College District trustees, last week, approved a $2,356,459 lease-purchase agreement for the purchase of the college campus from Monterey Union High School District.

MPC is entitled to $64,614 from funds voted by the California legislature for junior college site acquisition. Payments to the high school district will be $118,000 a year for 18 years, plus a five percent annual interest charge.

This week Monterey County board of zoning adjustments granted a variance which will permit the Alcan Pacific Company to open a dead end lane in lower Carmel Valley as an access road to its proposed new rest home behind the Descanso Oaks subdivision.

The decision on the request, which has been a controversial one, roused the ire of subdivision residents, who were represented at the board meeting by an attorney. The question will undoubtedly be appealed to the board of supervisors, according to Descanso Oaks residents, who even talked of applying for incorporation. Incorporation, however, would not be necessary for the group to ask for an appeal of the case.

Planning commissioners allowed the Standard Oil Company to add, for safety reasons, a chain link fence to a 12-foot retaining wall at the company's new service station being built at Junipero and Fourth Street, providing it was screened by planting, preferably vines.

Roofers are working on the 100,-000 square foot roof of the new Community Hospital, largest roof on the Peninsula. It is scheduled to be finished by the end of this month. The entire hospital on a 22-acre hilltop site south of the Pacific Grove-Monterey interchange will be completed by April.

A release from Monterey County Assemblyman Alan G. Pattee points out the danger to children from castor bean plants growing as ornamental shrubs in gardens or wild beside highways. In one California county alone, 30 children are known to have been poisoned because they innocently ate castor beans shot from spiny pods of the plant and broadcast over wide areas. The Assembly interim committee on agriculture is hold-ing public hearings on a bill to limit possession of such plants; also require commercial growers to fence castor bean fields.

Sports ...

(Continued from Page Two) mel journeys to the valley hamlet to do battle with Coach Ernie Piper's strong Blue & White Mustangs. About as anticipated, the Padres and Mustangs are battling it out for the league title and tomorrow night's joust will just about settle the 1961 title chase. Pacific Grove is still undefeated and has an outside chance to garner all the blue chips, but the Breakers appear too weak up front to challenge the likes of Carmel and King City.

Comparative scores show the Mustangs and Padres to be pretty equal with the scales showing no superiority for either squad, backfield speed about even, and the power running of the Mustang's Jim Mankin, offset by the superior passing of the Padre quarterbacks, Dan Holman and Bob Palma. King City has shown a little more scoring punch than the Padres, but the Red & Gray crew has been tougher on defense.

Answering the referee's whistle to start the action against King City will be Padre forwards Rich Shively, Tony Belleci, Jim Kelley, Pete Morse, Bob Albee, Terry Tweedie and David Harris. In the backfield will be Bob Palma, Steve Fairfield, Lee Oleson and George Pollock.

The 6:00 o'clock junior-varsity clash will also have a vital bearing on the jayvee championship of the CCAL B-division. Both teams have been running roughshod over league opposition this season and tomorrow night's winner is a virtual cinch to be the 1961 titleholder. Opening the action for Coach Rainer's Little Padres will be ends, Phil Zobel and Lynden Mahrt; tackles, Grant Pollock and Claude Dechow; guards, David Preve and Jim Markowitz; center, Bill Hill; quarterback, Bob Larson; halfbacks, Gary Mumford and Dennis Clark; and fullback, Marlin Fluegge.

Other games on the CCAL Bdivision slate for Friday night are: Pacific Grove at Hollister; San Lorenzo at Gonzales; and Live Oak at Gilroy?

The future bridegroom, son of Robert Terril Durbrow Sr., of San Bruno, and Mrs, Geraldine Durbrow of San Francisco, and the bride-elect are currently both studying at San Francisco State University, but Bob has plans to enter the Air Force soon. The wedding date has not yet been set.

Commissioners Delay All Saints' School For Safety Reasons

(Continued from Page One) bell, mandatory by state law, was included in the recommendations; no specified pupil disciplinary action outside the school compound was specified by the council; also the fact that the church buildings proposed for day school use did not conform to state safety requirements for schools.

Planners denied the original All Saints' Parish request for a parochial school on August 16. The parish appealed the decision to the city council which reversed the commission's decision on September 27 and remanded the request to the commission for issuance of a permit with six recommendations yesterday afternoon.

The recommendations governing issuance of the school use permit were prepared by Councilmen John Chitwood and Gunnar Norberg and approved by the council. They are as follows: the school was not adverse to public interest and should be allowed; its temporary status was to be stipulated in the permit as two academic school years; the maximum total attendance was not to exceed 50 pupils in two grades the first year, three grades the next; a five-day school schedule, September to June was to be stipulated; no summer school sessions were to be contemplated; traffic problems were to be controlled by cooperation between parents and the chief of police.

Faced with no alternative but to issue the school permit yesterday, commissioners decided these council recommendations should be augmented by specified safety, traffic and noise controls, and delayed action until October 30.

The Reverend David Hill, rector of All Saints' Parish, told commissioners that their suggested time limitation of two academic years, specified as September 1961 to June 1962 and September 1962 to June 1963 yesterday afternoon, meant the school, started in Pacific Grove this September, had lost a slice of part of one of the two years allowed by the council.

He assured commissioners that a buzzer system would be used, not bells; he had worked out parking and traffic with Police Chief Klaumann so that all cars delivering pupils would go inside church property to unload; pupils would be disciplined to prevent annoyance to residents in the neighborhood; the staff would park cars off the street on church property.

In answer to a question from Commissioner Florence Josselyn asking if the parish had planned to use an addition on the church site for a school when they applied for a use permit for this construction, designated at that time only for Sunday school and parish administration use, Mr. Hill replied The new buildings spurred growth of the school"

Persons interested in establishing the parochial school, under consideration for ten years subsequent to erection of the new buildings sought use of this office and Sunday school space for a day school, he added.

Mr. Hill also stated the school, because of delay in granting the use permit, lost some pupils this

In reply to three residents of the church area who protested to the commission the council's overruling of the planning commission school denial, also that the council ignored 125 owners of 100 parcels of land surrounding the church site when they opposed the school by presenting a petition and map, Commissioner Hugh Smith, acting as chairman pro tem during the board of adjustments meeting,

"We have no choice but to issue the use permit for the school."

He was referring to the fact that the council's decision to allow the parochial school prevented any other action by the commission.

"It smells all the way down the line," was Commissioner John B! Martin's observation on the parochial school use permit matter.

(Continued from Page One) Pine Cone has been a vital organ for the preservation of Carmel. Throughout the years, as councilmen came and went and village committees flourished or waned, she persisted in presenting the special, fragile values of this town to the newcomer. To her watchfulness and alertness, her willingness to speak up forcibly, the citizens owe a debt that they can never repay.

She wrote the truth as she saw it, she was a fighter for what she believed to be right, she scorned sham and hypocrisy, she gave unstintingly of herself, she never knuckled under.

Planners Consider Pros And Cons Of Fitzgerald Variance

As a board of adjustments, yesterday afternoon, planning commissioners referred two requests for variances back to their architectural committee for further study and report on October 30.

The first was a request from Lady Maria Antonia Field to roof over a deck at her residence on Santa Lucia Street and Rio Road. The second request came from George R. Fitzgerald who wishes a height variance to cover a deck at his house on Guadalupe Street between Ocean and Seventh Ave-

The latter matter was brought to the attention of the commission last month by Dr. Werner Pundt, a neighbor, who said the Fitzgerald addition, now under construction, was "too high and too close." He repeated this assertion yesterday during the public hearing on the variance.

Mr. Fitzgerald told commissioners he had begun building the addition only after his plans were submitted to the building inspector three times and approved. He proceeded legally, he contended. Neighbors protested the height of his addition and he was asking for a variance, allowable in the building code regulations.

His attorney, Ralph Thompson, told the commission the one and one-half foot variance requested by Mr. Fitzgerald would be within the 16-foot, six-inch allowed limitation in the building code.

A petition sent to the commission and signed by 12 of Mr. Fitzgerald's neighbors favored granting the variance, A letter from the Right Reverend Winfred H.

Ziegler, Retired Bishop of Wyoming, stated as a former Carmel Highlands neighbor of Mr. and Mrs. Fitzgerald for ten years, Bishop Ziegler knew them to be fine neighbors. In another letter, Mr. Fitzgerald stated he was asking for a variance because it would avoid a step down from dining room to proposed covered deck level, Mrs. Fitzgerald had only partial sight and he wanted to eliminate the step.

Building Inspector Floyd Adams stated the building permit for Mr. Fitzgerald's addition was granted by a substitute building inspector while Mr. Adams was on vacation.

Commissioners will act on this matter on October 30.

Photographer Adams Builds In Highlands

A native San Franciscan, Ansel Adams studied to become a concert pianist. After becoming an accomplished musician, music as a career fell by the wayside when he discovered photography. He became a professional photographer in 1928.

During the early 1930's, he was given a show by Alfred Steiglitz in New York and, after that, his fame multiplied. The number of his books is impressive. The latest is the beautiful The American Earth with text by Nancy Newhall, which went on sale in 1960.

Adams, a director of the Sierra Club, has been a strong fighter for conservation. He has given generously of his time and talent to fight the ravaging of the remaining unspoiled parts of America. His photographs have been one of Adams, with his assistant Gerry Sharpe, will conduct a photographic workshop under the sponsorship of the American Federation of Arts from October 30 through November 2 at the group's headquarters in the former Feingarten gallery. Emphasis will be on aesthetics, vision, and conception, followed by practical instruction in technique. The workshop is open to all serious students of photography.
